

Focus on Healing, Not Expenses

Critical Illness Insurance

Routine checkups and screenings help to keep your health on track – but what if they uncovered something like cancer?

More women than ever survive the diagnosis of cancer or another serious illness. But with health costs rising every year, added financial stress is the last thing you need while you're focused on treatment, healing and the people who matter most.

There's a better way. Critical illness insurance pays money directly to you if you're diagnosed with a covered serious illness like heart attack*, cancer, stroke or advanced Alzheimer's disease.

The policy provides money you can use for anything you need, like:

Deductibles and copays/coinsurance

Lost income from missed work

Everyday expenses – mortgage/rent,
utilities, childcare

Experimental treatments and travel

Take control of your health expenses with Assurity Critical Illness Insurance.
